W. switch-engine last evening and thrown some distance, sustaining a bad scalp wound. He was picked up near the south end of the passenger depot platform and taken to the police station, where Dr. H. W. Edson took several stitches in the wound. Wright had 37 cents on his person and this was used to partially pay for medical attendance. "Have I got to walk home?" asked the patient this morning. "I don't care how you get there—don't get hurt," said the doctor, and you owe him about $5 more," said the Chief.

There will be a special meeting of Janesville Commandery No. 2, O. E. S., this evening, 7:30. Visitors are cordially invited to attend. Work in the regular order. Frank H. Bauck, Recorder.

TORNADO MADE THE SWEEP OF ROCK COUNTY

STORM YESTERDAY AFTERNOON LEFT TRAIL OF WRECKAGE IN WAKE.

$50,000 WORTH OF DAMAGE

This is Estimated as the Total Amount of Damage Done to Property—Evansville and Edgerton Suffered Badly.

Rock county was visited by the worst storm of the year yesterday afternoon shortly after four and from various reports received the damage will amount to some fifty odd thousand dollars with many other sections of the county to be heard from. It is nature and while the wind lasted intense that tobacco sheds and even trees were blown down, while big were snapped off like the stems and vines into adjoining fields.

One little cloud that looked like a puff of smoke caused the damage and its whirling, rushing motion following a path which deviated in many directions left a trail behind it that will cost many thousands of dollars to repair. Janesville missed it by but a few miles, while the other side of the river and Evansville appear to have been in the storm center.

At Evansville the storm appears to have been at its worst. It was just broken just on the western portion of the city. A silo on the Shastal farm was completely demolished and the wreckage strewn over the fields. The office building, the cattle shed, the hog-house and the fences at the fair grounds were blown into bits and scattered over the next field.

On the George Hall farm a large tobacco shed was blown down and a house was taken from its foundations and blown into a creek. A new barn on the Isaac Sherman farm was wrecked and huge chunks of timber, eight inches in diameter, snapped off like pipe-stems close to the ground or uprooted.

Men working near the fair grounds saw the storm and its fury, but did not feel a breath of wind and while but a few rods from the scene of devastation were not even wet from the floods of water which followed for at least five minutes as the storm progressed onward.

At the William Heffel farm the tobacco shed and barn went and Peter Smith's tobacco shed was swept away. East of the city one mile on the Riley Searles farm all the buildings except the house itself were demolished, and on the Stevens estate the windmill and hay barn were carried some distance.

Charles Hoague, a son of C. C. Hoague who lives seven miles east of Evansville, was severely injured while taking refuge in a barn. Young Hoague was in the fields when he saw the storm coming and started for the house. As he neared it he saw the windmill topple over and then rushed into the barn just as that building fell. He was pinned down by a heavy timber which fortunately was kept from crushing him by striking a valuable horse first and thus keeping the great portion of the weight from his body. On the Riley Searles farm the machinery was taken up twisted and ruined and a large hog was lifted from the hog pen and thrown into an adjacent field with every bone in its body crushed.

Pero miles from Evansville to the east near Gibbs Lake, the Frank Montgomery place received the full fury of the storm and everything in the shape of buildings except the brick portion of the house itself was carried away and even the roof on the brick portion went with the rest into adjoining fields.

On the State Ballard place the windmill was blown down and other damage done. All through Evansville small outbuildings and sheds were blown down and trees snapped off, branches torn from the trunks and debris strewn about.

The United Brethren church at Utter Rein, located about six miles north of this city, was in the storm area. Services had just been concluded over the remains of the late Lester Cutts, who was drowned in Higgins' pond on Sunday last and at four o'clock the funeral cortege had proceeded but a short distance toward the cemetery when the tornado vented its fury on the little body of mourners.

A wagonette from Edgerton carrying a number of men, women, and children was upset and a half dozen buggies, including one occupied by Mrs. Fay Dunn of Newville, formerly of this city, and her two children, were overturned.

The house and two carriages, which were from the C. W. Kommerer & Co. livery, were in charge of James Casey, George Palmer, and Paul Habor, and the drivers succeeded in getting under the partial shelter of a piece of thick woods before the storm was at its height.

Those thrown out of the vehicles escaped with some severe bruises, but the top and wheels of the wagonette were wrecked and the panic-stricken horses were with difficulty prevented from running away. The funeral was in charge of Lynn Whitney, who is in the employ of W. H. Ascraft. His buggy was turned over but not damaged.

In the Edgerton carryall which contained members of the Newville lodge, Mrs. Nellie Brown, superintendent of the Sunday School at Newville, was the worst injured and was removed to her home. She is reported to be in a critical condition today. The vehicle was smashed as flat as though run over by a road roller.

Other losses reported this afternoon near Edgerton are on the James Lay farm, where the barns are down and a huge tree blew down against the house, breaking all the window glass, on the C. H. Stewart place, where the barns went down; Thomas Condon lost his barn; Mrs. Keeley, three miles south of Edgerton, lost her tobacco sheds and barn; James McGraw's tobacco shed and barn are down, windows in the house broken and windmill gone.

Near Oakley Corner rural route carrier on No. 8 reported ten trees were torn up or snapped off, falling across the road, so that they had to be chopped out before teams could pass.

Agnes Butow, located on the L. Wikom farm, had his windmill blown down and carried by the wind about 50 rods. His large tobacco shed was blown in on the west side and carried four feet off the foundation.

The steel windmill of Louis Fidler on the D. Wikom farm was destroyed, tobacco shed blown down, roof of barn blown off, henhouse carried 50 rods out in the field.

Frank Huesner on Walworth farm, chimneys blown off the house, windmill blown down and barn carried off foundation, three trees blown down.

Collins on Walworth farm, large trees blown through barn door, John Fulton, Glen farm, trees blown up against side of house.

Other losses reported by the same carrier are: A. Clough on the Wikom farm, windmill down; James Higgins' barn moved four feet off its foundation.

General reports show that there is scarcely a windmill left standing in the course of the storm and hardly a barn, while almost every house is more or less damaged. Farm machinery was lifted and thrown in heaps and trees snapped off.

Carter & Morse have much tobacco insurance placed in the district which was storm swept and they have received reports of several heavy losses. A special adjuster has been asked for from the Chicago office.

On the George Rummel farm north of town the wind of yesterday afternoon took the form of a full sized cyclone. Mr. Frey, who lives on the farm, says the wind came from the direction of Gibbs Lake and had passed his place in 2 minutes, leaving his ground, Mr. Frey declared he was pretty badly scared for a few minutes between the wind and the darkness.

SERVED THE PAPERS THIS AFTERNOON

Atty. John Cunningham Obtains Order to Show Cause Why He Should Not Amend Complaint.

An order signed by a court commissioner and calling upon the defendant's attorney to show cause why the plaintiff should not be allowed to amend his complaint was served upon W. G. Wheeler, attorney for George Appleby this afternoon. This is the next step in the proceedings to decide who is the head of the local police department.

The order sets July 6th, at ten o'clock, as the time for the hearing and Judge Grimm will then take up the matter of whether or not the amendment will be allowed. Mr. John Cunningham, attorney for John Brown, asks that he be allowed to amend his complaint by inserting newly discovered matter. This matter is that the properly constituted at the time of the election of George Appleby as chief of police. The paragraph which will be inserted in the complaint, if the amendment is allowed, by Judge Grimm, will state that the commission was not properly constituted at the time of the election as one of the members had not filed his bond and that therefore only two votes were cast for George Appleby as chief of police and that he was not therefore elected by the commission by a majority of votes.

OPPOSE BAR WEST OF FIVE POINTS

Many Citizens Are Watching Council to See What Action Will be Taken on Matter Next Monday.

Forty-seven applications for saloon licenses and one for a brewers' license have been filed with the city clerk, Charles Roberly who seeks to open a saloon west of the Five Points is one of the applicants, and the question as to what action the common council will take on this proposition is being widely discussed. There are rumors that some of the aldermen, having heard of the Mayor's statement that he will refuse to sign any license for a bar west of the railroad tracks, are inclined to line up in favor of the petition, just to take somebody down a peg, etc., but there are not given much credence even by those who are inclined to think and say harsh things of the City Fathers.

Throughout his incumbency of the office of City Marshal, the late John Hogan used his utmost endeavor to have the bars on the other side of the tracks closed up. Finally, in 1904, the council passed a resolution to the effect that no liquor dispensaries should be licensed in that district, and none have been since that time. It was the argument then and it is equally applicable now, that with saloons, the district in question could not be properly policed by a small force of officers such as Janesville has at present. In the old days the rough element congregated there; the police were fostered; and at least one murder was committed directly to the existence of those places. Moreover, if the entering wedge is admitted, others stand ready to ask for licenses not only for saloons in that locality but in other outlying districts as well.

"Liquor dealers will do well to discourage this movement," said one prominent citizen this morning. "If the council grants this application, this making it possible to reconvent the present quiet residence and business district into what it was five years ago, I venture the prediction that there will be a no-license campaign here next spring that will put Janesville high and dry in the list of closed towns. And some of the men who will be pushing the no-license propaganda most strongly are ones who are not prohibitionists and do not, under ordinary circumstances, believe in prohibition."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 1, 1868.—Breaking ground for the new machine shop of Harris, Philfield and Co. The work will be rushed to immediate completion.

Rigorous Accident.—A fine horse, owned by Dr. Judd, while passing along the street this noon, pranced around and put a hind leg through the spokes of one of the front wheels of a dray, which was in motion. The animal could only be relieved by taking the wheels of the vehicle off. The only injury he sustained was some severe bruising on the leg.

A Dastardly Act.—A crowd of roughs or drunks last night assaulted the young couple by Mr. Geddes and his family with stones, throwing a shower through the windows and endangering the lives of the family. No man who has not murdered in their hearts could engage in such a flagrant assault. What motive could have prompted to such an act of violence is more than could be conceived.

Columbus, July 1.—General Grant passed through here today on route west. He was enthusiastically received at the depot.

The Sun's Washington dispatches say that Secretary Seward has nearly completed negotiations for the purchase of Greenland and Iceland from the Danish government. It is said he is to give $1,500,000 in gold for them, and that he has already promised sufficient support in the Senate to secure the ratification of the measure. Mr. Seward is now having printed at the government, a voluminous account of these countries, and their richness on account of the great resources of climate and fishing, which he will send into the Senate with a copy of his new treaty.

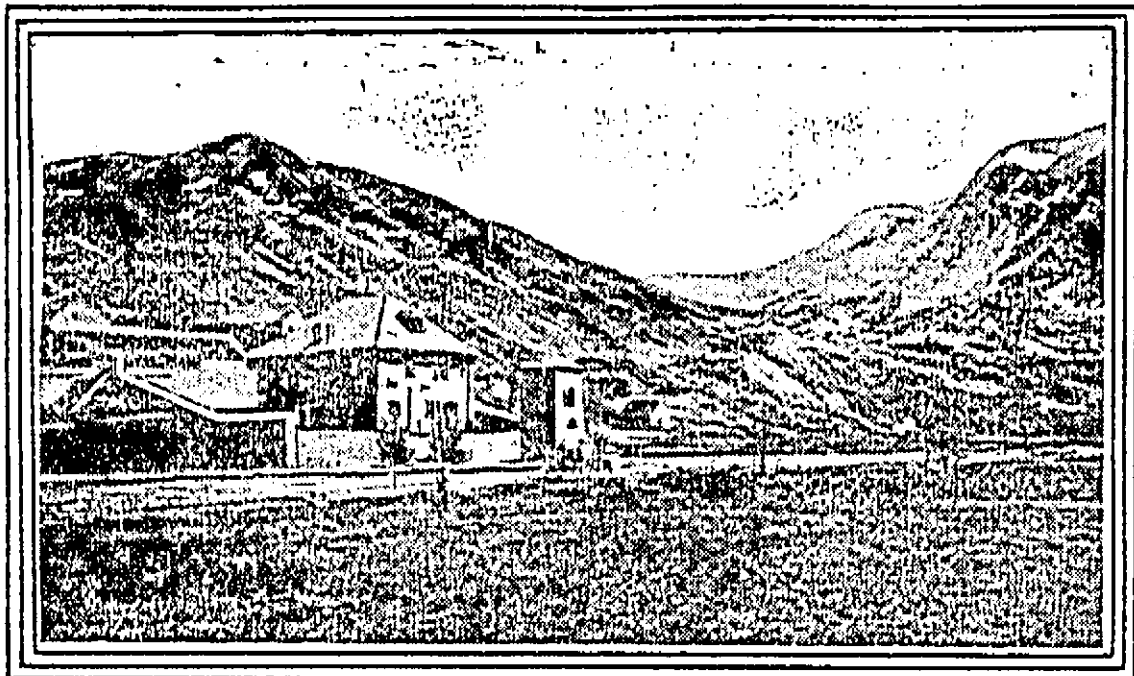

St. Louis, July 1.—The steamer Benton arrived at Leavenworth from the upper Missouri today, with a cargo of 10,000 buffalo robes, 8,000 wolf skins, and a large number of deer, elk, antelope, beaver, mink and other skins valued at $75,000.

CROWN PRINCE GEORGE OF SERBIA, AND THE PALACE OF MONTENEGRO.

Cethini, Montenegro.—More trouble in the Balkan states. Crown Prince George of Serbia has adopted drastic methods in dealing with the rebel state Montenegro. He is now accused of having ordered bombs to be made by artillery officers under his command to be used against and to explode Montenegro. This second time testimony involving the crown prince has been given at the trial, which is now pending here of 32 prisoners charged with revolutionary activity in connection with the discovery of a store of bombs at Cethini last year. Two of the witnesses declared that the bombs in question had been manufactured by Serbian artillery officers on the direct order of Prince George, the intention being to use them against the Montenegrin government with the hope of overthrowing the existing regime. Diplomatic relations between the two countries have been ruptured as was to be expected, and the ministers have left their posts for home.

Cethini, the capital of Montenegro is picturesquely situated in the green basin of an ancient lake, high up among the limestone peaks. It is reached by a magnificent road which descends a succession of beautiful cliffs. The palace is a plain white stone building and the town, aside from the palace and the monastery, which bishops live, consists of two steeply lined with stone cottages. Crown Prince George is known more especially for his mad escapades and wild behavior, which have attracted much unfavorable comment where he is known.

There's No Servant Problem

There's no servant problem in the home where Shredded Wheat is known. Being ready-cooked and ready-to-serve, it is a boon to busy housekeepers in summer. It contains all the strength-giving elements of the whole wheat made digestible by steam-cooking, shredding and baking. It makes a delicious, nourishing meal in combination with fresh fruits. Try it. At your grocers.

Always heat the Biscuit in oven to restore crispness. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with milk or cream will supply all the energy needed for a half day's work. Try toasted TRISCUIT, the Shredded Wheat wafer, for luncheon, with butter, cheese or marmalade.

For a Hot Day

Nothing equals an ELECTRIC FAN for comfort on a hot day. It cools the atmosphere and makes work easy. No home, no office, no store or factory should be without one or more of these aids to summer living. Why suffer with the heat when at small cost you can have an ocean breeze in your home.

An Electric Fan

THINK OF IT!

The average lawyer's income is $750—the average doctor's income is $1000—the average dentist's income is $1000, and only that after an investment of from $2000 to $1000 in an education and 4 of the best years of life.

Sophy & Kravonia

by ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Copyright, 1906, Anthony Hope Hawkins

The light of the Street of the Fountain fell to be fought again, for when Peter Vassop was dashing forward, his hand, with a spring like a mountain goat's, his master's voice called, "Mist! Peter! Mist!" It was the old cry when they saw a wild bear in the woods about Dobruva, and it brought Peter Vassop to a stand. Max von Holzhofen, too, lowered his pointed revolver. Who should stand between his quarry and the king, between Sophy's lover and the man who had so outraged her? Big Mistlitch was the king's game and the king's only that day.

Mistlitch's chance was gone, and he must have known it. Where was the sergeant who had undertaken to cover him? He had turned tail. Where was the enveloping rush of his men, which should have engulfed and paralyzed the enemy? Paralyzed was on his men themselves. They believed Zerkovitch and lacked appetite for the killing of a king. Where was his triumphant return to Slavina, his horse, his rewards, his wonderful surroundings at the Golden Lion? They were all gone. Even to ask a question. He saw a decenter of brandy standing near the door of one room and drank freely of it. Then he made his way into the garden. He saw men standing over the bridge toward Slavina and hastened after them as quickly as he could. His head was still in a maze. He remembered nothing after drinking the glass of wine which Lepage the valet had given him, but he was possessed by a strong excitement, and he followed obstinately in the wake of the throng which set from the palace and the suburbs into Slavina.

The streets were quiet. Soldiers occupied the corners of the ways. They looked curiously at Markart's pale face and disordered uniform. A dull roar came from the direction of St. Michael's square, and thither Markart aimed his course. He found all one side of the square full of a dense crowd, swaying, jostling, talking. On the other side troops were massed. In an open space in front of the troops, facing the crowd, was Colonel Staffolz and by his side a little boy on a white pony.

Markart was too far off to hear what Staffolz said when he began to speak—ing, the cheers of the troops behind the colonel came so sharp on his words as almost to drown them, and after a moment's hesitation, as it seemed to Markart, the crowd of people on the other side of the square echoed back the exclamations of the soldiers.

All Countess Ellenburg's ambitions were at stake. For Stenoves and Staffolz it was a matter of life itself now, so dashing had they raised their hands against King Sergius. Countess Ellenburg had indeed prayed, and now prayed all alone in a deserted palace, but not one of the three had hesitated.

At the head of a united army, in the name of a united people, Staffolz had demanded the proclamation of young Alexis as king. For an hour Stenoves had made a show of demurring; then he bowed to the national will. That night young Alexis enjoyed more honor than he had asked of Lepage the valet—he was called not prince, but majesty. He was king in Slavina, and the first work to which they set his childish hand was the proclamation of a state of siege.

Slavina chose him willingly or because it must at the bidding of the soldiers, but Volsent was of another mind. They would not have the German woman's son to reign over them. Into that faithful city the wounded king threw himself, with all his friends. The body of Mistlitch lay all day and all night by the wayside. Next morning at dawn the king's grooms came back from Volsent and buried it under a clump of trees by the side of the line running down to Lake Tahtl. Their curses were the only words spoken over the grave, and they flattened the earth level with the ground again that none might know where the man rested who had lifted his hand against their master. The king was carried to Volsent sore stricken. They did not know whether he would live or die. He had a dangerous wound in the lungs, and, to make matters worse, the surgical skill available at Volsent was very primitive.

But in that regard fortune brought aid and brought also to Sophy a strange conjecture of the new life with the old. The landlord of the inn sent word to Zerkovitch that two foreign gentlemen had arrived at his house that afternoon and that the passport of one of them described him as a surgeon. The landlord had told him how things stood, and he was anxious to render help.

It was David Williamson, Dunstanbury and he, accompanied by Henry Brown, Dunstanbury's servant, had reached Volsent that day on their return from a tour in the Crimea and around the shores of the sea of Azof.

Young Alexis proclaimed king.

Mistlitch fell with a mighty crash, shot through the head.

though he killed the king, there were two dozen men vowed to have his life. They must have it, but at what price? His savage valor set the flame high. It was the old light again, but not in the old manner. There was no delicate sword play, no dexterous fortitude in the fray. It was all stern and short. The king had not drawn his sword; Mistlitch did not seek to draw his. Two shots rang out sharply—that was all. The king reeled in his saddle, but maintained his seat. Big Mistlitch threw his hands above his head, with a loud cry, and fell, with a mighty crash, on the road, shot through the head. Peter Vassop ran to the king and helped him to dismount, while Max von Holzhofen held his horse. Sophy hurried to where they laid him by the roadside.

"Bismarck these fellows!" cried Zerkovitch. But Mistlitch's escort were in no mood to wait for this operation, nor to stay and suffer the anger of the king. With their leader's fall the last of heart was out of them. Wrenching themselves free from such of the Volsentians as sought to arrest their flight, they turned their horses' heads and fled, one and all, for Slavina. The king's men at Volsent pursued them. They clustered around the spot where he lay.

"In life," he said to Sophy, "but not in death, I think."

From the castle door, down the causeway, came Marie Zerkovitch, weeping passionately, wringing her hands. The soldiers parted their close ranks to let her through. She came to the roadside where Sophy supported the monarch's head upon her knees. Sophy looked up and saw her. Marie did not speak. She stood there, sobbing and wringing her hands over Sophy and the wounded king.

That afternoon, an hour after the first of the struggling rout of Mistlitch's escort came in King Alexis' dead body! So ran the official notice, endorsed by Dr. Natchoff's high authority. The caterers were in up to their necks. They could not go back now. They must go through with it. Countess Ellenburg and Staffolz held long conversations. Every point of tactical importance in the city was occupied by troops. Slavina was silent, expectant, curious.

Markart woke at 5 o'clock, heavy of head, dry in the mouth, sick and ill. He found himself no longer in the king's suite, but in one of the apartments where Staffolz had occupied. He was all alone. The door stood open. He understood that he was no more a prisoner. He knew that the king was dead.

But who else was dead, and who alive, and who in Slavina? He forced himself to rise and hurried through the corridors of the palace. They were deserted. There was nobody to be seen but a body of whom he knew nothing.

He found himself no longer in the king's suite, but in one of the apartments where Staffolz had occupied. He was all alone. The door stood open. He understood that he was no more a prisoner. He knew that the king was dead.

Chapter Twenty-eight

It was late at night, and quiet reigned in Volsent—the quiet not of security, but of ordered vigilance. A light burned in every house; men lined the time worn walls and camped in the market place; there were scouts out on the road as far as Praskok. No news came from outside and no news yet from the room in the guardhouse where the wounded king lay. The street on which the room looked was empty save for one man, who walked patiently up and down, smoking a cigar. Dunstanbury waited for David Williamson, who was in attendance on the king and was to pronounce to Volsent whether he could live or must die. Dunstanbury had been glad that David could be of use, but for the rest he had listened to the story which Zerkovitch told him with an amused, rather contemptuous indifference, with an Englishman's wonder why other countries cannot manage their affairs better and something of a traveler's pleasure in finding out how things are done.

SCORES SOCIETY AS ASCAUSE OF NEGLECT

Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer in Lecture at State University, on Defective Classes, Compliments Wisconsin on Care of Insane.

Madison, Wis., July 1.—In a lecture on "The Defective Classes," delivered this morning before students of the summer session at the University of Wisconsin, Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer of New York scored society heavily for its neglect of the feeble-minded, the epileptic, and the abnormal, though she took occasion to compliment Wisconsin on its care of the insane, saying "The care of the insane in Wisconsin has been a shining example of progress in humanity and wisdom." Mrs. Spencer's address was, in part, as follows:

"A common degenerative psychosis may result in insanity, feeble-mindedness, the worst form of epilepsy, or an abnormal condition of the moral nature resulting either in moral weakness or perversion. Progress in the care of these various classes has been so marked, and in the last fifty years so rapid as to entirely revolutionize the condition of these unfortunate.

Give Insane Employment.
"Dorothea Dix changed the condition of the insane in the United States from that of persons feared and hated as possessed of the devil, to patients requiring the most tender and expert care. The cause of insanity are increasingly studied, and the usually accepted great increase in insanity is seen by the more careful student to be largely a more perfect diagnosis of nervous irritability and various forms of disease previously supposed to be under the control of the patient entirely. The two newest things in the care of the insane are a movement to provide congenial employment for all chronic patients able to work, and the attempt to place chronically insane people in families as boarders under the constant care of a physician but with freedom of movement to the extent of social sets. The care of the insane in Wisconsin has been a shining example of progress in humanity and wisdom.

Number of Blind Decreasing.
"The cause of blindness are now found to be associated often with improper care of the mother in confinement. The improved antiseptic treatment of all cases and the growing requirement on the part of cities for midwifery to be considered an essential part of the medical profession are causing a reduction in the number of the blind. Education of the blind is rapidly assuming nearly all the features common to the education of seeing children. The help of the adult blind toward self-support is the newest and most progressive movement in this line. The work in Massachusetts in which blind people do the fine and beautiful work in textile weaving and other industries previously supposed to be impossible for them is an encouraging example of what may be done. Massages has furnished a field of useful work for large numbers of the more refined and cultivated blind women.

Teaching Deaf-Mutes to Speak.
"The instruction of the deaf-mute is now almost exclusively in the direction of articulation speech with a view to making the deaf person able to move and work in ordinary society. The new things in regard to the education of both blind and deaf are the special rooms in the regular public school buildings for the benefit of these classes of children. The larger cities are now undertaking the education of the blind and deaf without removing them from their homes to residential schools.

"The epileptic requires very special protection and care, and should never be with other children, but a class of epileptics, in a large city, may be cared for in day school. It often happens, however, that epileptics require special hospital treatment, and for most of them the custody and education in an institution is desirable. But epileptics should never be left in an ordinary almshouse, and the feeble-minded epileptics should never be left with the intelligent of that class. The basic principle in the medical treatment of the epileptic is the training and use of motor muscles in regular activity. As a specialist remarked, many an epileptic fit goes off harmlessly into the ground at the end of a shower.

Feeble-Minded Greatest Menace.
"The feeble-minded and abnormal constitute the greatest social danger of any defective class. It is a disgrace to our present social life that only about one-third of the feeble-minded persons in the United States are under proper custodial care. Paramount segregation of all markedly feeble-minded persons is an absolute essential to proper social protection and social progress. From feeble-minded parents we get every form of social degeneracy. The feeble-minded girl is an invitation to the exploitation of greed and lust. The need of the extension of permanent custodial care for the socially incompetent is the most fundamental and pressing need in social effort.

"The celebrated Julius family of New York state which provided over 11,000 thieves, prostitutes, paupers, and feeble-minded persons within a period of three generations, and which cost the public purse over a million dollars in charitable expenditure, all came from one neglected feeble-minded girl allowed to come up unprotected in an almshouse. Could this girl have been the mother of criminals and degenerates would we not have felt a village.

SIM DORN WILL BE ON DUTY ON THE EAST SIDE

This Evening and Will Act as Supply Patrolman While Officers Are Taking Their Vacations.

Sim Dorn is the reserve patrolman who will be on duty for sixty days while the officers are taking their ten-day vacations. Officer William Mason has been called into the office from the West Side night beat to take Officer Chapman's place. Officer Sam Brown will take Mason's beat on the West Side and Officer Dorn will be on duty on the East Side. This program will go into effect tonight unless some word to the contrary is received from Mr. Dorn, who was called north of Milwaukee by the illness of a sister but expected to be back in Janesville this evening.

O. D. Rowe Much Better. Mr. O. D. Rowe, who has been ill at his cottage at Lake Koshkonong, is much better the past two days. Dr. Gibson drove across country this morning and called on Mr. Rowe. Mr. Rowe was able to be out on the porch today.

Romance in Cement. There is much of the romantic in the development of the "cement belt" from a farm land, none too rich at that, to a teeming valley filled with laborers, skilled and unskilled. Farmers who for years barely succeeded in making enough from their farms to meet the mortgage interest suddenly found themselves rich beyond the most extraordinary flights of their imagination. Barren, rocky soil, upon which the wild carrot, the goldenrod and the Canada thistle were the most prolific crops, and where the tiller of the soil more frequently than not damned the rocks which were to prove his fortune, suddenly became worth hundreds of dollars an acre.—Popular Mechanica.

An Early Coin Sweater. "Coin sweating," which is often figures in the Old Bailey calendar, is a very, very old crime. More than six centuries before Christ there was a coin sweater, one Alexander of Byzantium.

He was the chief officer of the public treasury, and he amassed an immense and sudden fortune by "clipping" the money in so skillful a manner that his frauds could only be discovered by weighing.

The Byzantines gave him the nickname of "The File," from his making such dextrous use of that tool. Whence probably comes the modern term of "fil" applied to thieves, pickpockets and cunning, hard-headed scoundrels.—Pearson's Weekly.

Courage and Patience. If you imagine that you "have a kick coming" just think of Mrs. Della Cook, aged 87 years, and bedridden for 153 years, supported herself all that time. She carried an example for all.

The Loafers. "The right sort of man," said the man who goes out hunting day after day, "is one who does not feel just that way."

MEXICAN REBELS ATTACK PALOMAS

REPULSED AFTER A BATTLE WITH THE REGIMENT.

SLAUGHTER BY RURALES

Eight Bandits Killed and Shot
Down—American Troops Begin
Enforcing the Neutrality Law.

El Paso, Tex., July 1.—Revolutionists Tuesday morning attacked the Mexican post at Palomas, Chihuahua, 100 miles west of El Paso, and were repulsed after a battle with the garrison.

According to advices received by the El Paso & Southern railway, their foreman at Alamos, N. M., in a prisoner in the hands of the revolutionists. Immigration and customs inspectors have been called in for duty at Columbus, N. M., across the border from Palomas.

Rurales Slay Eight Bandits.
Del Rio, Tex., July 1.—It is reported here that a company of rurales cornered a detachment of eight of the revolutionists who attacked the little town of Las Vucas and that a fight occurred in the mountains southwest of the city. The revolutionists were short of ammunition. The rurales are reported to have charged the hiding place of the men and, despite the fact that they offered to surrender and pleaded for mercy, shot them to death. It is reported that Mexican soldiers have instructions that it is not necessary to return with any prisoners.

American Troops in Guard.
Washington, July 1.—American military forces are now in service for the enforcement of the neutrality laws along the Mexican border.

Gov. Myer, commanding the department of Texas, has reported to the war department that directions already have been given for the dispatch of four troops of cavalry from posts in his department to Del Rio. As to other points he will be guided by his conferences with the civil officials.

Almost Without Precedent.
The employment of American troops for this purpose, by the way, is almost without precedent in recent years and the law officers of the war department, as well as the attorney general himself, have been obliged to give close study to the question of the extent to which they may exercise the power of preventing persons entering the United States across the Mexican border.

Under the law no passports are required except in the case of Chinese and Japanese, and the only other reasonable ground for detention of fugitives seeking to cross the line would be some presumable violation of the immigration or health inspection laws. So it will be a delicate task for the army officers who are charged with the duty of policing this international boundary line to avert clashes with the civil courts if they undertake to make promiscuous arrests of persons fleeing from Mexico into the United States.

STOP DRINKING

"How to Swear Off"

It was formerly customary for the habitual drinker to take the pledge regularly, sometimes once a year, and sometimes in every fit of remorse that followed his debauches, and then—break it.

But now it is gradually dawning on the world that pledges do not stop drunkenness. When a man takes a pledge voluntarily, he expects to keep it. Every man expects to keep his word, and every broken pledge costs the drunkard many a heartache. But he cannot help it. He fights as long as he can, then succumbs to the craving. The nervous system of the habitual drinker is diseased and he must have treatment that will cure his condition.

Orrine is sold under a positive guarantee to cure the drink habit or the money will be refunded. No other treatment for the liquor habit is sold with such a liberal guarantee. Orrine is prepared in two forms: No. 1, a powder, perfectly tasteless and colorless, which can be given secretly in any food or drink. Orrine No. 2, is in pill form, for those who wish to be cured of the habit, and it should be taken by every one who swears off.

No matter which form of Orrine is used the guarantee is the same. The price of Orrine is $1.00 per box, mailed in plain sealed wrapper, with a receipt of price. Write for free booklet on "How to Cure Drunkenness" (mailed in plain, sealed envelope) to Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. Orrine is sold by People's Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy.

Over three hundred men, women and children in the United States lost eyes by Roman candles, but bright another lot just the same. What's loss of an eye compared to liberty?

THE GLORIOUS DAY.
The Doctor—If you want to celebrate the glorious Fourth? The Doctor—If you want to celebrate the glorious Fourth? The Doctor—If you want to celebrate the glorious Fourth?

THE GIRL'S SIDE.

My name is Joe and I can remember back six years of July. Every body says it's a great day, but I know better. It's not the boys. When the Fourth comes girls are left out.
Last Fourth, got up before daylight to burrah for Washington with my brother Jim. Just as I got my mouth open he saluted me with his chin off if I didn't cry it.

Heard of a bunch of firecrackers, but wouldn't let them shoot a single crack. Said that I blow myself up. Said that a girl was enough to shoot a firecracker.
The boy was a big bug of immorality, but I was overbearing. When I asked for some, was told that my grand-mother didn't like me and die at that time.

Jim had two drinks and a coconut. He refused to give me a bite. He said the status for patriots, and that no one would be a girl being a patriot. I pitied him and got him down, but mother made me sit on the front steps.
Now a soldier's march by.
Now the company march by.
Saw a fire and a banner, but when I got to cheer had my ears cut off.

More than a hundred boys went past our house eating something, but not one of the stopped to divide with me. One of the called me and said I better run, I had my ears cut off.
I ran to my room and hid under the bed. In the evening when a rocket-stick came down and lit on the bed. I wasn't hurt, but I didn't care, but mother said I was forgetting the immorality of the evening.

THAT'S WHY.
Martha—Why do they allow fire-crackers on the Fourth?
Sammy—How'd anybody know it was the Fourth? If they didn't have firecrackers?

Naphtha Won't Do It All.

The soap must be good. P. & G. Naphtha Soap IS good.
Possibly you do not know how P. & G. Naphtha Soap does its work.
The way of it is this: The naphtha in it has an "affinity" for dirt. It breaks dirt into tiny particles, which are easily removed by soap and water.

In other words, naphtha loosens the dirt. Water carries it off. Soap and water, together with fresh air and sunshine, restore clothes to their original freshness and beauty.

Naphtha, then, is valuable. It helps to make washing easier, because it loosens the dirt. But the real work of making clothes clean must be done by soap. The better the soap, the easier the work.

Right there is where P. & G. Naphtha Soap's superiority is proven. Clothes washed with "P. & G." are whiter, brighter, cleaner, sweeter than when washed with any other soap. The reason is simply this: P. & G. Naphtha Soap is better soap.

NOLAN SENTIMENT

Sentiment tending toward the nomination of Thos. S. Nolan of Janesville as the republican candidate for congress is growing stronger as the summer advances. The fight made by the present congressman at the National Republican convention to have certain alleged socialist plank placed in the national platform, has not made him any warmer friends and has disgusted some of his former adherents. Then, too, the fact that Bryan will probably be the democratic nominee and that when the Nebraska man runs again for the first time, the first district congressman wavered in his party allegiance, is again being talked of. Taking it all in all, Mr. Nolan is making wonderful progress in his initial campaign. There is yet much work to be done, the final steps to be taken, but it is safe to say that unless something unforeseen happens Janesville will have the next republican congressman from the district.

THE CHAIRMANSHIP

Dispatches announce this morning that Presidential candidate Taft has finally adjusted the difference relative to the chairmanship of the national republican committee. Both Hittcheck and Vorys are to have a place, Vorys is to have charge of the Chicago office and Hittcheck other work to do. The Pacific coast is also to have a campaign manager, a new innovation in national politics. It is to be hoped that a peaceful solution has come and that both Hittcheck and Vorys are to be placed in a manner befitting their capabilities. Certainly Mr. Vorys deserves recognition for the splendid work he did in the preliminary organization in Ohio which was the backbone of the campaign which followed in the south and was conducted by Hittcheck. Neither of the men can afford to be dissatisfied with a thank-you and both should receive recognition.

WHITEHEAD'S POPULARITY

Senator John M. Whitehead is showing remarkable strength in his present campaign for re-nomination to the office of state senator. Men who have been bitterly opposed to him in former years now appreciate his worth and value to the county and have signed his nomination papers. The meeting of the heads of the big De-lt industries was merely an instance of the sentiment that is apparent all over the county. Senator Whitehead is a strong man that not only deserves re-nomination but should be given such a hearty endorsement that there is no mistake about his position as the champion of the Rock county voters.

DEMOCRATIC SQUABBLE

Now that John Aylward has announced himself as a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor the rest of the democratic aspirants want to take a hand in the matter and have something to say. The party is not united by any means. The schisms and lanes of the republican have permeated the democratic ranks. It does not make much difference who is nominated—the important is to get a republican elected. The party is not united by any means. The schisms and lanes of the republican have permeated the democratic ranks. It does not make much difference who is nominated—the important is to get a republican elected.

felicitous phrase when he said that Secretary Taft was just the man to clean up the White House desk; that is to say, to finish President Roosevelt's unfinished work.

What he meant was that what was needed now in the White House was a man not so much to originate a new policy, and to strike out as a pioneer in a new field of endeavor, but one who will soberly though firmly finish up the business that has been begun and thus put the country in a position where it might, if it desired, start on a new movement of national development.

Not only is William Taft eminently fitted to perform this work, but it is a work which the country needs to have done. The people of the United States are in no mood to retrace steps already taken, to undo reforms already begun or to return to old conditions, but they do need those in which to finish up the work which has been begun and to adapt themselves to the new conditions which they have ordered. Cleaning up the desk is now the next great work.

NO NORTH, NO SOUTH, NO EAST, NO WEST

General Wright is worthy of the highest honors on his own account, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. He is a man of tried, rare, iron courage, shown in his handling of the yellow fever epidemic in Memphis, when even stronger hearts quailed and when thousands deserted under the impulse of fear of inevitable death. He is a man of nerve, and a man of his capacity as an administrator and executive will prove worthy of any trust, but he is especially interesting to those who remember the past or to those who have read the history of their own country as a sign and a proof that at last the term "southern" applied to a state or its people is strictly limited in its meaning to geographical position. The rest has all been swept away. The flag of the "Confederate States of America" can be displayed in the north and now evoke no sign—except a cheer.

Governor Johnson hopes that by keeping alive the thoughts he would like to be president he may succeed in landing something after all. The unexpected sometimes happens.

So Janesville's prisoner, Mrs. Rice, is the oldest to reach Waupun. Well, it takes some time to reach some of these old offenders, but they are reached at last.

Mexican revolutionists are sorry now they began something they can not finish. People wearing Merry Widow "bonnets" often have these ideas.

Bryan and his Nebraska farm appear to be the Mecca for many a weary traveler and the railroad side-tracks are already being used.

If that anti-injection plank out at Denver is wise it will see that there are some bumps ahead of it before it reaches the clear sailing region.

Illinois must be in the swim at both the democratic and republican conventions, even if discord is to follow.

Still the candidates for the county offices drop into print, one by one. Some are bound to be disappointed.

Maybe those Mexican revolutionists are merely practicing for the season at some summer garden.

Baron Takahira approves of the directorate given for American women.

Continual agitation will make the Fourth more sane than usual.

It is no longer Secretary Taft now. It is candidate Taft.

"Art in Spanish Bank Notes.

To baffle the counterfeiters, who are both numerous and cunning in Madrid, the Bank of Spain has pursued the policy of changing its notes with great frequency and retiring each issue as fast as possible.

The bank has now determined on a new plan. It has placed an order for a series of notes with an English concern, and it will rely for safety upon a special color process. In addition the notes are to present pictures of well-known buildings in Spain, executed with a perfection that will defy counterfeiting.

"The pictures are to be so beautiful that amateurs will be tempted to frame them," says one Spanish newspaper. "Hardly," rejoins another, "the cost of the set will be 1,075 posetas, you see. To the Spanish mind $338.50 is a great deal of money."

Revived in His Coffin.

A strange case of revivification was that of John Adams of Del Rio, East Tennessee. Adams is a mining engineer and one morning he was found in bed apparently dead. A physician said it was a case of heart failure. The body was made ready for interment and relatives and friends in Philadelphia were notified. A check was received from Philadelphia in payment of the undertaker's bill, but the undertaker declined to accept anything save the hard cash. This caused further delay, and while waiting the coming of the money by express the eyes of the "corpse" opened, there was a yawn and there likewise was a sudden disappearance of the undertaker and others from the room. Mr. Adams recovered and is still alive.

To the Voters of Rock County.
I wish to announce my candidacy for the office of sheriff of Rock county for the republican ticket at the coming election. I am a native born citizen of this county and shall appreciate the support of the voters of the county.

ORIGIN OF THE OCTOPUS.

How the Mail Order Business Had Its Beginning.

In view of the light against the mail order business now being made throughout the country in the interests of the local merchants, a brief article in the magazine called System on the origin of the mail order trade is highly interesting. While the founder of the business and others engaged therein are engaged in a perfectly legitimate calling, there can be no doubt that this constantly expanding mail order business is a real octopus. It reaches out its millions of tentacles to the farthest corners of the country, seizing and raking in the dollars which should be left in circulation around home. These dollars are the lifeblood of the community, and the mail order octopus sucks them out of the community's system.

Forty-seven years ago, says System, a young man, then a clerk in a small general store at St. Joseph, Mich., observed with some satisfaction that residents of many smaller towns miles distant could be attracted to the tradesmen of their own village to this selling center.

Four years later, as a salesman in a Chicago mercantile house, he observed with increasing attention the number of letters that came to this establishment bearing small orders from residents of distant towns and from farmers living miles away in the agricultural sections of southern Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska.

Another period of three years, and, having served as a buyer and then connected with a St. Louis house, he stopped at a town that stood as a country seat in southwestern Missouri. He was in a small store which had attained the position, despite the limitations as to extensiveness imposed by its rural location, of the smart retailing concern of the little city. The proprietor had just inclosed a small parcel in an envelope.

"Here, Jim," the latter called to a clerk; "take this over to the postoffice. It's for Mrs. Henderson, over at Greenridge. It's surprising," he continued, turning to the visitor, "how the folks over at Greenridge—one of the small towns within a thirty mile radius—stick to me. I have a good many customers over there. Some of 'em write almost every week for goods. The storekeeper over there doesn't seem to like his people very well. Guess he doesn't give satisfaction."

And these things, turned over in the mind of Montgomery Ward, gave germination of the idea, then crude in its imperfection, of retailing direct to the customer by mail. If these people and the towns and the agricultural reaches of the west were taking on a population of vigorous, hardworking, ambitious folk who wanted the best they could get for their money—would buy through letter outside their own towns, and at that without any special material inducement being extended, they could not a trade be built up if the purveyor would enter direct to these people and offer them attractive advantages of lower prices, good service and honest goods?

The young man is now the head of a great Chicago mail order house that bears his name—the pioneer in a new industry.

Home Trade Homilies.

It's all very well for you to think you're doing yourself justice by buying your supplies from the big city many miles away, but in the long run you're doing an injustice to your descendants, who are supposed to live in the town which you are killing off by neglecting to patronize home industries.

You may save an occasional nickel by ordering "bargains" through mail order catalogues, but don't you lose at least a nickel's worth of your self respect when you happen to meet one of the home merchants whom you have known all your life and from whom you could have bought the same bargain?

Governor Johnson says one of the great issues of today has to do with the curbing of the trusts. The chances are ninety-nine to a hundred that you agree with Johnson, no matter what party you may belong to. Very well. How about the big mail order trust, which is organized to kill off country merchants? Are you a supporter of the mail order trust?

If you are a farmer and sell your produce to the local stores and then stick stamps on letters ordering ordinary household articles from a city many miles away, wouldn't you think it the proper sort of reciprocity if the town merchants should cut dealing in fresh vegetables and supply only canned goods to their customers?

Throughout the country for some months we have heard the cry that "there is no money in circulation." Times have been tight. People who keep up the habit of buying mail order goods on the slightest pretext or provocation may expect to hear it said that there is no money in circulation around home. "Cause why? They send it outside of the community."

Tree Planting Along Roads.

The Stockton (Cal.) Arbor club has commenced an active campaign to raise funds for the purpose of having the fourteen miles of trees planted along four roads leading out of Stockton. The scarcity of moisture this season makes it necessary that the trees be watered several times, and additional funds are necessary to carry the many fine trees that have been growing through the summer. It is also the intention of the Arbor club to later extend the tree planting on the four roads already lined with trees. Officers of the organization hope before many years to have the main thoroughfares leading to Stockton nice shady lanes.

FALLING-GUIN TOBACCOCREAGE

Mayor Heddies Estimating That It Will Be From 8 to 10 per Cent—Nearly All the Planting Completed.
Mayor Stewart B. Heddies, who is secretary and treasurer of the People's Coal Co., has just returned from a tour of inspection of the sixteen miles east of Wausau about 120 acres of the tract have been cleared for a farm and the rest standing timber. Five acres of them have been planted with tobacco to the first crop. Three acres of the first crop have been planted. Since the company produced the culture three years ago, a dozen or more farmers in the area have taken it up and it has been estimated that the same variety of Havana seed leaf as are raised (stock county) will flourish equally well north of here. Success, of course, is conditioned on early planting, the frosts come early in September, in the northern country. Heddies, according to the Mayor, the thing out of the plants is nearly cured and practically all of the work will be completed by July 4, so this season should be a comparatively easy one. According to his estimate, and those of Mr. Phiney of the bureau of statistics, the falling of the number of acres devoted to this year in the Wisconsin tobacco belt will be from eight to ten per cent.
